5.0. DEFINITION OF VALUES & TERMS

Fair Value
The price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date

The Fair Value returned herein is based on the Depreciated Replacement Cost Method of Valuation and reflects continuation of the existing use and the value and may include a special element attributable to the earning potential of the asset for a particular existing purpose by reason of their nature, location, character and physical attributes, but such element of value, if present, exists irrespective of the benefit for the asset to the particular individual undertaking of which it forms a part.

The depreciation rate applied to the gross replacement cost of the fixed assets has taken due account of age, physical condition, economic and functional obsolescence, and environment and other relevant factors, including any residual value at the end of the asset's useful economic working life.

The Gross Replacement Cost (GRC) is the estimated cost of acquiring a new or modern substitute asset having the same productive capacity as that existing, together with the associated expenses directly related to the installation of the asset.
This replacement cost may be useful in determining the sums to insure your assets for, however care should be exercised as in certain instances it does not reflect replacement on a `like for like' basis.

The Depreciated Replacement Cost (DRC) is the cost of acquiring and installing a new or a modern substitute asset having the same productive capacity as that existing, depreciated according to age, obsolescence, use and condition. This value is only applied to assets which are part of an operating concern and assumes adequate profitability. It does not necessarily represent the market value of the asset.

The Estimated Remaining Life is given in years and is the valuer's opinion of the remaining economic useful life of the asset taking into account age, condition and probable cost of future maintenance, present use and the prospects of its continued use.

The Salvage Value is the amount realised, or estimated to be realised, upon the sale of an asset that has reached the end of its economic life. A sum of money that is received for an asset that would otherwise be destroyed, given away, or written-off, because it is considered to have no further value.

7.0. BASIS, METHODOLOGY AND APPROACH TO THE VALUATION

FAIR VALUE BASIS OF VALUATION

Fixed Assets are the types of long term tangible assets of an entity that used for business operation. The IAS 16

- Property, plant and equipment (PPE) or Fixed Assets are tangible items that: Are held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, for rental to others, or for administrative purposes; and
- Are expected to be used during more than one period.

The basis adopted for the fixed assets valuation herein is Fair Value (International Financial Reporting Standards) (section 90)

We understand that one of the objectives of the exercise is to set up an assets register that will be compliant to accounting standards and statutory regulations in Kenya. Our valuers are well experienced in advising client in International Accounting Standards (IAS), International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), and the International Valuation Standards (IVS).

There are fundamental accountings and financial reporting areas that will be addressed when developing the fixed assets register for the school. International financial reporting standard (IFRS), IVS and IAS provide guidelines specific to the treatment of fixed assets. We will advise adoption of IFRS as this is the world standard and applies to all organisation and companies that are not wholly government owned. For example, IFRS provides a choice between 'cost model' and 'revaluation model' for accounting for fixed assets. An entity can use the cost model for some classes of assets and the revaluation model for others.

Revaluation model

The definition of revaluation model is after recognition as an asset, an item of fixed asset or property, plant and equipment whose fair value can be measured reliably shall be carried at a revalued amount, being its fair value at the date of the revaluation less any subsequent accumulated depreciation and subsequent accumulated impairment losses.

Revaluations shall be made with sufficient regularity to ensure that the carrying amount does not differ materially from that which would be determined using fair value at the end of the reporting period. [IAS 16,31]

Measurement of Fair Value

Overview of fair value measurement approach

The objective of a fair value measurement is to estimate the price at which an orderly transaction to sell the asset or to transfer the liability would take place between market participants at the measurement date under current market conditions. A fair value measurement requires an entity to determine all of the following: [IFRS 13: B2]

- the particular asset or liability that is the subject of the measurement (consistently with its unit of account)
- for a non-financial asset, the valuation premise that is appropriate for the measurement (consistently with its highest and best use)
- the principal (or most advantageous) market for the asset or liability
- the valuation technique(s) appropriate for the measurement, considering the availability of data with which to develop inputs that represent the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability and the level of the fair value hierarchy within which the inputs are categorised.

Guidance on measurement

IFRS 13 provides the guidance on the measurement of fair value, including the following:

- An entity takes into account the characteristics of the asset or liability being measured that a market participant would take into account when pricing the asset or liability at measurement date (e.g. the condition and location of the asset and any restrictions on the sale and use of the asset) [IFRS 13:11]
- Fair value measurement assumes an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date under current market conditions [IFRS 13:15]
- Fair value measurement assumes a transaction taking place in the principal market for the asset or liability, or in the absence of a principal market, the most advantageous market for the asset or liability [IFRS 13:24]
- A fair value measurement of a non-financial asset takes into account its highest and best use [IFRS 13:27]
- A fair value measurement of a financial or non-financial liability or an entity's own equity instruments assumes it is transferred to a market participant at the measurement date, without settlement, extinguishment, or cancellation at the measurement date [IFRS 13:34]

Valuation techniques

An entity uses valuation techniques appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, minimizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimizing the use of unobservable inputs. [IFRS 13:61, IFRS 13:67]

The objective of using a valuation technique is to estimate the price at which an orderly transaction to sell the asset or to transfer the liability would take place between market participants and the measurement date under current market conditions. Three widely used valuation techniques are: [IFRS 13:62]

- Market Approach – uses prices and other relevant information generated by market transactions involving identical or comparable (similar) assets, liabilities, or a group of assets and liabilities (e.g. a business)
- Cost Approach – reflects the amount that would be required currently to replace the service capacity of an asset (gross replacement cost)
- Income approach – converts future amounts (cash flows or income and expenses) to a single current (discounted) amount, reflecting current market expectations about those future amounts.

In some cases, a single valuation technique will be appropriate, whereas in others multiple valuation techniques will be appropriate. [IFRS 13:63]

Methodology/ Approach Adopted

The valuation methodology adopted in this asset valuation exercise is on the Cost approach i.e. Depreciated Replacement Cost of the asset i.e. the Gross Replacement Cost of the asset, including professional fees, if acquired new and adjusted using a reasonable predetermined depreciation factor. This is done on a straight line basis up to a maximum of 80%-90%, depending on the type of the asset, with the remaining value being retained as the Residual Value of the asset.

The depreciating factor is informed and determined by the Valuers assessment of the remaining useful life of the asset, and expressed as a proportion to the useful economic life of the asset i.e. remaining useful life divided by the economic useful life. It reflects the age, condition, utilization, technological obsolescence, repair and maintenance programme of the asset and any other type obsolescence, if any.

In instances where it was not possible to ascertain the acquisition price or current replacement cost of the asset when new, we relied on written down costs and acquisition costs or prices of the assets, adjusted to reflect inflation and time, together with prices of new assets, especially of those assets recently purchased. We also analysed and considered prices of assets deriving similar utility, similar capacities and generally assets that can easily replace each other in terms of utility.

For purposes of this valuation report the fixed asset included herein exclude land and buildings, whose valuation are contained in a separate valuation report. It should be noted that the scope of this valuation report is limited to fixed assets that PROLAND valuers physically inspected, and which form the basis of the establishment of the fixed assets register. For ease of reference the assets have been captured in the following asset classes;

Asset Classes
Furniture and Fittings
Computers & Accessories
Office Equipment
Kitchen Equipment
Laboratory Equipment
Plant and Machinery
Motor Vehicles

It is evident that information technology is rapidly changing, therefore exposing computers & hardware, office equipment and related accessories to a steep rate of obsolescence, which is due mainly to physical, functional and economic obsolescence. For this reason, we have applied a fairly high rate of depreciation on these asset categories with further consideration for relatively lower salvage value.

The assets were generally in a fairly good and usable condition, and were actually in use at the time of our inspection. There were also other assets that were recently acquired and a fair number of them were actually less than 3 years, while others were new and un-used. These new assets have been valued at their acquired prices, with no depreciation being applied to same.

Nonetheless there were also a number of assets, which in our opinion were past their useful economic life, in view of the date of acquisition and their ages. Since these assets are still in fairly good condition and are in use, mainly due to the maintenance work undertaken on same, the values returned for them are essentially residual values for book purposes.

Economic useful life of the various assets is the reasonable period, over which the asset is expected to perform efficiently and profitably, or the period for which it is economic to maintain the asset, allowing for normal wear and tear.

We have adopted reasonable predetermined periods to provide the useful economic life of the various assets. However, this will vary from organization to organization, depending on general use, maintenance policy and practice and such other factors, especially so for user specific assets, such as plant and machinery, motor vehicles, office equipment and other categories of assets.

Hereunder is a schedule of the economic useful life used for the various assets valued;

Description of Asset	Economic Useful Life (Years)
Furniture and Fittings	8 -12
Computers & Accessories	3 – 4
Office Equipment	6 – 8
Kitchen Equipment	6 – 8
Laboratory Equipment	15 – 20
Plant and Machinery	15 – 20
Motor Vehicles	15 – 20

ASSET CLASSIFICATION & CATEGORIES

Most of the fixed assets are located within different areas of the properties such as;

- Administration Offices
- Laboratories (Note that experiment equipment have been considered as instruments and thus ignored in our valuation)
- Main Kitchens and office kitchenettes
- Cafeteria
- ICT rooms
- Accommodation Rooms (Note that mattresses have been ignored in our valuation herein)
- Conference Halls
- Garages
- Farm Area

Furniture & Fittings/ Fixtures and Office and Other Equipment:

To facilitate operations of KEPHIS, the institution uses a fairly wide range of furniture, fittings and office equipment. Furniture & Fittings/ Fixtures include; office desks, chairs, tables, filing cabinets, shelving units, sofas, racks, cabinets, beds etc.

The Office equipment include printers, fire extinguishers, water dispensers, televisions, air conditioners, fridges, laundry washing machine, speakers, telephones, etc These types of assets are acquired on a periodic basis or when it becomes necessary, thus there is a fairly good number of both newly acquired assets as well as repaired and maintained office/classroom equipment that was still in use in the various classrooms, dormitories and administration offices.

As there is currently no set policy on how to treat the old and almost fully utilised equipment and furniture, we have returned appropriate values on the assets, though these may be considered as the Salvage Values of the respective assets. Although these equipment and furniture have, in principle, reached the end of their useful economic life, we appreciate that they are still in use on a daily basis in carrying out the operations of the institution.

Our basis of valuation is the Depreciated Replacement Cost Value, where we have considered the prevailing prices and cost of acquiring the assets as new. Depreciation was then applied to these prices over the unexpired, estimated useful economic life of the asset, on a straight line basis up to a maximum of 80% - 90% depending on the asset, with the remaining useful life being retained as the salvage value. We have also borne in mind the second-hand value of similar assets in the used goods market, thus the values returned are also comparable to prices of goods on second-hand value basis. In instances, where this was not possible to obtain the cost or prices of certain few assets, we relied on the costs on acquisition, and then adjusted for inflation over the number of years, while using costs of similar assets in terms of utility and output.

Laboratory Equipment:

This is a sub-category of Office and General Equipment. These assets are equipment that are found within KEPHIS laboratories for the quality assessment of agricultural inputs and produce. These assets include but not limited to microscopes, photometers, chillers, centrifuges, deionisers, fridges and freezers, fumehoods, distillers, weighing scales, blenders, grinders, extractors, ovens, incubators, water distillers etc.

These have also been valued on the assumption that regular service and maintenance is done allowing for optimal performance. The methodology used is also based on the Depreciation Replacement Cost, which is carried out on a straight line basis, using the year of purchase to determine age and the remaining useful life of the equipment.

Computer and Accessories

Our basis of valuation for this category is basically the same as described above. However, in as much as the estimated values of the assets in this category do not include the cost of software installed therein, the values include costs of accessories limited to keyboards, mouse, and power cables. This category includes CPU, monitors, UPS, server equipment, laptops, tablets etc.

These have been valued on the assumption that regular service and maintenance is done allowing for optimal performance. The methodology used is also based on the Depreciation Replacement Cost, which is carried out on a straight line basis, using the year of purchase to determine age and the remaining useful life of the equipment.

The basis of value has been calculated using the Depreciated Replacement Cost as defined in the report; however special discounts were applied for age, use, utilization, repair and maintenance records and history, obsolescence and general condition.

Kitchen Equipment:

This is a sub-category of Office and General equipment.

These include such assets that are found within the kitchen of the institute for mass cooking, storage and washing for the workers. These include cookers, electric/gas ovens, fridges, chillers, microwaves, frier, tea urns, freezers, stainless steel worktops and tables, dish racks, trolleys and other kitchen equipment in the kitchen. Some of the kitchen equipment like fridges and microwaves are also located in offices. They have also been treated similar to the other assets and have been valued on the basis of the Depreciated Replacement Cost as defined in the report.

Kitchen tools and cutlery such as spoons, forks, knives, cups etc were not considered as kitchen equipment in accordance with our terms of reference and have thus been excluded from this valuation. All assets in this section were valued in line with accepted methodology, with the exception of loose tools which were ignored. The basis of value was calculated using the Depreciated Replacement Cost as defined in the report.

Plant and Machinery Assets:

Air Compressors, water pumps and tanks, farm machinery and generators

The valuation of assets in this category incorporated the cost of acquiring and installing a new or a modern substitute asset having the same productive capacity as that existing, depreciated according to age, obsolescence, use and condition. Among the assets included here are the power generators, water pumps, water tanks, disc ploughs, air compressors and other similar machinery.

These have also been valued on the assumption that regular service and maintenance is done allowing for optimal performance. The methodology used is also based on the Depreciation Replacement Cost, which is carried out on a straight line basis, using the year of purchase to determine age and the remaining useful life of the equipment.

The basis of value has been calculated using the Depreciated Replacement Cost as defined in the report; however special discounts were applied for age, use, utilization, repair and maintenance records and history, obsolescence and general condition.

Motor Vehicles

KEPHIS maintains a considerable fleet of motor vehicles. These include station wagons, pick-ups, buses and mini-buses, motorbikes, tractors amongst others.

In undertaking the valuation of these assets, we have relied on the information given to us by the institution, together with other reliable information we have been able to obtain from the dealers. We were also able to obtain some information on some of the vehicles from the respective staff, especially on the field. This information included the supply of copies of log books for the vehicles and some information on the average mileages covered by some of the vehicles at the time of the valuation.

We did not undertake a physical or mechanical inspection of the motor vehicles. We were not supplied with any information of the service records and assume that all vehicles have been properly serviced and maintained by the respective motor vehicle dealers in accordance to the guidelines set in the operations manual for the respective motor vehicle.

In arriving at the Gross Replacement Cost (GRC) of the vehicles, we obtained the current market prices for the same new vehicles. In the event that any of the vehicles are no longer in production, we have taken the original price of a similar vehicle or newer model with the same engine and carrying capacity. Our GRC figures have not taken into consideration of, any discounts that might be offered by the dealer, but includes the price of the vehicle including registration. With respect to the bus and mini-bus, we have also included the price of the respective bodies.

The Depreciated Replacement Value (DRC) of the vehicles and mobile assets was arrived by taking into consideration the year of manufacture of the asset, the mileage covered by the vehicles and on the assumption that the vehicle has not had any major repair as a result of an accident or unusual normal use or wear and tear. The depreciation is done on a straight line basis, over the unexpired estimated useful economic life, taking into account the use, condition and to an extent where available, the mileage of the vehicle. Finally, we have taken the DRC and compared with the second-hand sale price of similar vehicles in the Nairobi market to determine the value of the vehicles.

As we did not mechanically inspect the vehicles and other mobile machinery, we would advise KEPHIS to consult their Insurance Brokers before determining the value of insurance cover to carry for each of the vehicles valued. We would like to hereby categorically state that the values retuned in our valuation herein should not be adopted for Insurance Purposes.

Our general assumption with regard to the useful life of the motor vehicle is 15 to 20 years. Our advice to management would be to undertake a detailed review of the maintenance cost of each vehicle that is over 10 years to determine if the vehicle is still of economic value to the organisation in carrying out its activities.

8.0. WORK PLAN AND ASSET INSPECTION

Site visits for the inspection and valuation of assets owned by KEPHIS covered all the assets situated within the aforementioned 25No. stations across the country.

Our work plan incorporated a team comprising the asset valuers and their assistants involved in the valuation exercise.

The staff, senior management, junior and support at KEPHIS provided invaluable assistance to enable us achieve the objective of the exercise. They assisted us in the entire process of carrying out the asset identification and verification exercises, amongst them; identifying the relevant assets, providing access, smooth inspection arrangements, historical information and other relevant details pertaining to some of the assets and generally in most of our day-to-day activities, which enabled us to carry out the inspection and valuation exercise to completion with minimal problems. We are most grateful to them for volunteering their services.

We note that during our inspection, there was frequent movement of the assets from one location to another. As such, we inspected the assets based on the various locations they were situated at the time of undertaking the exercise. Additionally, during the inspection various assets were tagged including: assets with old tag numbers, assets where tags had come off and new assets that had not been tagged. These assets were then updated in the asset register alongside their new tag numbers.

9.0. ASSET IDENTIFICATION, VERIFICATION & ESTABLISHMENT OF REGISTER

UPDATING THE ASSET REGISTER

The main task involved reviewing existing assets register and other relevant documents provided by the management, identifying and verifying the existence of all the fixed assets as well as the new assets and capturing crucial in written forms against the previous asset list, which was then typed in an excel format to update the asset register thereafter in the following format;

i. Asset number
ii. Asset description
iii. Asset category
iv. Asset model
v. Asset serial number
vi. Asset location, department and custodian description
vii. Asset Fair value

The institute through the principal provided us with a list of all their assets which was then subjected to verification and scrutiny by ProLand valuers in the presence of staff members assigned to assist in the assignment. It was a rigorous process which involved cross-checking and reconfirming that all assets were accounted for and the correct data about the asset captured correctly in the asset register.

REVIEW OF ASSET DESCRIPTION NOMENCLATURE

We reviewed and rationalised the nomenclature used in describing your assets. This is a standard procedure in all our implementation projects. We use the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) nomenclature as the best practice in asset descriptions. NATO nomenclature requires that the most important attribute is to be the primary determinant in the asset description with the progressively less important attributes following. In this way, asset type descriptions will reflect the preponderance of common attributes in the order of importance and the degree of homogeneity.

10.0. ASSETS MANAGEMENT RECOMMENDATION

Considering that KEPHIS owns about 8,100 no. assets, it recommended that they undertake the following;

1) Actualize their asset disposal plan to either sell/ donate the assets that are either obsolete or no longer in use within the facility.
2) Purchase additional tags to ensure the new assets are tagged and updated in the existing asset register.
